[Music] you [Music] I'm Jacob Hornberger president - the future of Freedom Foundation and this is episode eight of my series on the JFK assassination I'd like to use this particular episode to recap and summarize where we are with respect to the JFK assassination and specifically the autopsy that the US military carried out on President Kennedy's body you'll recall the testimony of Sondra Spencer she was the u.s. Navy petty officer who worked in the US Navy's photography lab in Washington DC she highly classified photographs she worked closely with the White House closely with President Kennedy it would be virtually impossible to find a witness more credible and with a greater integrity and veracity than Sondra Spencer in fact no one has ever questioned her integrity or her veracity well she kept her secret for 30-some odd years that was because she had been sworn to secrecy and made to believe that this was highly classified she told the assassination records Review Board in the nineties that she had been asked to develop a set of photographs for the autopsy the rrb showed her the official photographs record she looked at them examined carefully and said those are not the photographs that I developed on the weekend of the assassination when I developed for example she pointed out showed a big exit sized wound in the back of President Kennedy's head which of course would imply a shot have you been fired from the front this confirmed what the Dallas treating physicians were saying dr. McClellan dr. Crenshaw and the the two treating physicians that gave the press conference in Dallas immediately after the president was declared dead now we also have the two declared dead now we also have the two brain examinations we know that there were two separate brain examinations because there were two different separate third parties at each examination you had John stringer the official photographer that said I was there and then you had Colonel Fink st. no I was there and they both denied that the other was there that's how the assassination records Review Board concluded that there were two separate brain examined examinations along with the testimony that indicated that one immigrant examination took place almost immediately after the assassination within one or two days the other one took place a week or so longer after the autopsy now you also had the testimony of the photographer John g-string are showing that the brain had been sectioned sliced to determine the trajectory Colonel Fink was saying no the brain wasn't sectioned at the examination that I attended and then finally you have the the weight of the brain did it was clear that about a third or 25% of the brain was blasted away and yet when they weighed the brain it weighed more than a pert average person so full-sized brain virtually impossible now we we go from there to the fascinating story of John Newton Newton was the White House photographer he had served presidents going all the way back to Truman and extending through the Nixon administration you know sky it worked with president said his job depended on his sense of integrity and trust that the presidents had come to having him it would be impossible to spy to keep their job to five presidents if the guy wasn't credible and competent well Newton comes home from from after three days away after the assassination then he tells his family a fascinating story he says I was the official photographer for the autopsy and he says but I can't talk about it because I've been sworn to secrecy it's because I've been sworn to secrecy it's all classified his wife said that he treated this like the military desi he would take it to the grave with him one big problem Newton wasn't there everybody acknowledged it stringer was the official photographer for the autopsy but clearly Newton was photographing some procedure that he was made to believe and that some people made him believe was the actual autopsy he even gave an interview to a popular photography magazine saying I was a photographer it was the hardest thing I ever did this was 1977 which of course if he wasn't telling the truth he could have been called out on it immediately and nobody did call him out on it immediately so everything indicates that Newton was telling the truth and then he goes to testifies before the House Select Committee they show him the official photographs in the record and he comes home and tells his family look there's something some shenanigans going on here those photographs that they showed me are bogus and I want you to know that if this thing ever blows up I had nothing to do he was trying to preserve the sense of integrity that his family had had the image of for him now then we have all of the testimony that's intersecting showing that the body of the president was brought in early much earlier than the 8 p.m. official time when the honor guard was carrying in the big heavy Dallas casket you have commander Humes telephoning Colonel Fink at 8 p.m. saying hey we getting ready to start the autopsy we need your help and oh by the way we already have x-rays of the President's head yeah Gerald Custer saying hey when I walked in that foyer I knew the president's body was downstairs and when I saw mrs. Kennedy and of course out there in the front was the Dallas casket and then you've got all those enlisted men that said we carried in the body of the president at 6:35 p.m. then the assassination records review board determines their two

review board determines their two official reports that are prepared at the very time that all these things were taking place you've got the Boyajian report in which Marine Sergeant Boyajian said we carried the body in this cheap military casket certainly knocked the expensive casket and certainly not wrapped in sheets like they had done in Dallas but in a body bag and then you've got the Galler funeral home report that says yeah the body was carried in in a cheap style great casket so all of this is a recap that shows one thing there can be absolutely no doubt certainly no reasonable doubt that there were shenanigans that were taking place on the evening of November 22nd now how did all this get started well recall that Johnson Lyndon and sets this whole process into motion there at Parkland Hospital before as soon as President Kennedy's declared dead that team of Secret Service agents begins making preparations to get that body out of the hospital Johnson in the meantime is heading to Love Field and the team of Secret Service agent says we're under orders which only one person who could have reasonably given those orders and that's Johnson before he leaves the hospital they brandish guns they tell the the medical examiner of Dallas County they're gonna not permit him to do an autopsy there at Parkland Hospital even though Texas law required it you ever seen law enforcement officers acting like that they brandish guns they threatened to kill anybody that gets in their way and they forced their way out of out of the hospital with the casket the heavy ornate casket they head the Love Field meanwhile Johnson is expressing some concern that this could be the the first stage in a Soviet nuclear attack on the United States but yet his actions belie that concern he'll Allah gags at the airport he's there

Allah gags at the airport he's there getting sworn in by a federal judge they're having to go look for a federal judge even though Bobby Kennedy had told him that no such swearing was necessary he was automatically president he's switching luggage from Air Force two to Air Force One he's patiently waiting for the casket he's removing seats in the back of the plane does this look like a man who's concerned about the possibility of a nuclear attack by the Soviet Union I mean it would have been one thing if Johnson had said ah there's no chance of a nuclear attack here but he expressed the concern but then his actions confirm that he had in reality no concern whatsoever that the rest of it was just play-acting because if you really believed that there was a possibility he would have gotten in the air immediately playing it safe to direct the Americans counter strike in the event that nuclear missiles were flying in which would just would take just a few minutes from the Soviet Union everything indicates that Johnson knew that there was no possibility of such an attack and so the question arises how you know that how could he be so certain as to be lollygagging around the airport waiting for the casket to appear so that's the recap something odd was going on here shenanigans were being were taking place inside the morgue at Bethesda Naval morgue that evening of November 22nd 1963 as I indicated before it all revolves around those two terms national security you [Music]
